BUCKET BRIGADE PUTS OUT FIRE

At 10:30 o'clack last might, within forty feet of the fire which accurred on Sunday night on King street, a blaze was started in a Japanese lodging house, and but for the prompt action of police officer Espinda, the structure would in all probability have burned to the ground and jeopardized valuable adjoining property. In the rear of the Oceanic Gas & Blectric Company is a long, two-story building used as a general lodging house, chiefly patronized by Japanese. The room on the corner of the alleyway leading to King street is used as the office, and behind this is a room where cooking is done. Divided off from this with lattice work peculiar to Japanese lodging houses, are two or three small rooms fitted with bunks. These were all occupled early in the evening.

A Japanese lodger accidentally overturned a lamp and the glass bowl breaking, the oil spread about and set 5:10 breaking, the oil spread about and set 5:30 the room on fire. Not stopping to try 6:10 to extinguish the blaze, the lodger merely shouted a warning, and, grabbing up his clothes and a valise, dashed out into the alley, followed by about a dozen others. Officer Hapinda was on King street at the time, and hearing the shouts ran into the house. Smoke was issuing from the doors and he called for buckets of water, at the same time entering the blasing room and throwing blankets upon the flames. A white man ran for the nearest fire alarm box and sent the alarm to the fire station, out before the fire apparatus arrived the fire was out. Espinda's bucket brigade had done Hon. R. T. & L.
